

To the F.C.C.:

Please do not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law's protection. Prior to passage of that law my family and I were beseiged with telemarketing calls both day and night. Our dinner was interrupted almost every night and my sleep interrupted on numerous occasions in the morning.

I have not received any calls since putting my name on the list that the law provided and it is WONDERFUL!! A person has the right to be left alone and the Federal government (FCC) should not implement any proposals that would dilute laws passed by the states that protect its citizens. So please be aware of the harm you would be doing by implementing such a proposal.

Thank you for the opportunity to submit my comments.

Sincerely, Richard J. Pratt
